SECTION 1 — EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Proposed False Claims Act Disclosure

This report presents approximately eleven months of active, documented observations, photographs, videos, environmental measurements, travel records, public disclosures, and related documentation collected over a sixteen-month period between December 2024 and April 2026 concerning unidentified aerial phenomena (UAP), associated aerial activity, and potential congressional reporting issues.

During the observation period, I documented multiple unidentified aerial phenomena. At various times, as many as three separate objects were observed simultaneously. The number of observable objects varied throughout the investigation. At the time of this report, one persistent unidentified aerial object remains observable from Boone, North Carolina, and may be independently observed by authorized investigators. The activity described in this report is ongoing.

This report does not ask investigators to accept any particular explanation regarding the identity, origin, or nature of the observed objects. It does not assume extraterrestrial, foreign, domestic, military, or other causes. Instead, it presents a documented factual record and requests that the observations, supporting evidence, and related government activities be independently investigated.

This report presents two principal allegations for official review.

> Allegation One: I allege that activities publicly characterized as routine military exercises, atmospheric operations, training missions, or similar programs may have been used, in whole or in part, to conceal, misclassify, or otherwise obscure UAP interception activities.
> Allegation Two: I allege that, if such activities occurred, they may not have been accurately reported, disclosed, or briefed through the congressional oversight and reporting mechanisms required by law. If federal funds were expended in connection with activities that were knowingly misclassified or inaccurately reported, those expenditures may warrant review under the False Claims Act and other applicable oversight authorities.

To support these allegations, this report is accompanied by an evidence portfolio containing more than 1,000 photographs and videos, organized into exhibits and cross-referenced throughout the report. The evidence includes, but is not limited to:

- Photographs and videos documenting the observed UAP across multiple dates, times, and locations.
- Photographs and videos documenting military aircraft and other government-operated aerial assets observed in the same operational areas.
- Cross-country observations documenting UAP activity and related aerial operations in multiple states during travel.
- Photographs and videos containing both unidentified aerial phenomena and military aircraft or other government-operated aerial assets within the same documented scene.

Each exhibit is organized by date, location, and supporting documentation to facilitate independent review and comparison with official records.

The purpose of this report is not to establish these allegations as proven facts. Rather, it is to preserve the factual record, identify observable patterns, document supporting evidence, and present specific questions that may be answered through official investigation.

Accordingly, I respectfully request that the appropriate congressional committees, Inspectors General, or other authorized investigative bodies conduct an independent review of the observations, supporting evidence, classification practices, reporting procedures, and related government records described herein while the reported activity remains ongoing and capable of direct observation.
